To: Miss Rita B. Gibson Portland, Me.

Piano.

I wonder where the stars are that shone a while ago. And the dear heart 'O Mine, come home to me and fill this empty place. Just Moonlight and the laughter. And the songs I used to know: I let me see the love-light Shine once more in your sweet face; For the Wonder why the birds don't sing as off to the sky they fly; And the days are cold and dreary, and there's darkness everywhere. And the Sunshine too, is hidden in the clouds I wonder why: nights are long and weary, Filled with sadness and despair.

Chorus.

I hear your voice in the shadows.

'Twas only your dream calling.

And I wonder if you are gone.

In your life so far from me.

I turn but you are happy

if you sometimes hunger

for the things that used to be.
