Moderato
Spring-time caress, bright sunbeams
cweep, Waking the tulips from slumber deep, Soft buds unfolding,

Wonderous their hue, In their hearts holding sweet thoughts of you. The bright world fondly beckons, To you, dear heart, and me: What e'er may betide, With you by my side,

Life will a paradise e'er be, dear; Blossoms so tender softly appear,
A SONG THAT REACHES EVERY HEART

I HEAR YOUR VOICE IN THE SHADOWS
